

Alice Fay Hughes

1925 – 2001

I would have missed so many things, if we had never met

The happiness of moments much too special to forget. . .

The warmth of caring deeply, and sharing as we do

But, most of all, I would have missed

The joy of loving you.

Fay had empathy for others that guided her through her life. She would protect and comfort the family at all times. It was unfortunate that later in life she developed Motor Neurone but even when she was faced with this she refused to buckle under.

She never lost her sense of humour.

Mum was a devoted, humble and caring wife, mother and grandmother.
